	non-violent disciplining practices, all greatly affect a child's wellbeing. Providing safe and stimulating home environment, which allows children to play, explore and discover, is a critical piece of this process and can exponentially increase a child's chances of flourishing, attaining an optimal level of development and later becoming a responsible and productive adult. We achieved these through Community Health Workers (CHWs) whom we trained on how to monitor these at community level and report back to us every month. After information have been collected we conducted quarterly meetings at council level with various stakeholders aiming at ensuring enabling environment for nurturing care services reach all children through presence of sustainable support and advocating for inclusion of nurturing care across sectors to ensure provision of holistic services for all children.
